Were you familiar with the JBO prior to this show?  Yes  No

You are required to study the entire JBO document with special attention to the detail regarding the breed(s) you will judge, and the general introductory text for the group. Also please pay attention to the section on "Basics for all dogs" as detailed in the JBO document.

The breeds listed in JBO Scheme are chosen based on the estimated risk for unhealthy exaggerations of the breed characteristics and possible misleading interpretation of the Breed Standard. The listed breeds satisfy the four base pillars: Suggestions from the judges, veterinary experience, dialogues with breed clubs/breeders and with the input of senior judges. Frequently occurring construction faults, which are not connected to exaggeration of the Breed Standard, are principally not listed.

The primary task of a dog show judge is to preserve the characteristics of each breed within the frames of the approved Breed Standard. This must, however, never be done at the expense of soundness. It is the responsibility of the judge to be thoroughly acquainted with the Breed Standard as well as the anatomical and constructional risk areas for possible health problems caused by exaggeration of the breed type characteristics. Such exaggerations may harm the individual dog, and interfere with the development of the breed as a whole.

A judge shall primarily evaluate the exhibits as a result of previous generations of breeding. However, trends towards exaggerations must be identified before they result in wide-spread problems.

It is important to remember that all dogs should be healthy and sound. However, a dog that is sound but lacking in breed type, is NOT a good representative of that particular breed.
